

*Al
Cmt* each of said side wall panels extending substantially the entire height of said side wall, and some of said side wall panels having a plurality of separate groups of perforations for ventilation and lighting formed therein, with other portions of the side wall panels being imperforate to reduce admission of airborne particulates;

said groups of perforations being spaced inward from the edges of the panel and being spaced vertically from one another in each panel.

09891774.062601